

David H. Spach, MD

AIDS Education and Training Centers Award

David Spach is an inspiration and driving force in HIV/AIDS education and training of health care providers—to those in his five state Northwest AIDS Education and Training Centers (AETC) region and across the country.

Dr. Spach has delivered HIV/AIDS clinical care since 1992 and has served as Principal Investigator and Clinical Director of the Northwest AETC since 1993. Dr. Spach's impact as an educator is national in scope. His efforts—on-site training, clinical consultations, and distance-based learning—have helped expand the number of providers and clinics competent and willing to deliver HIV/AIDS care.

David's work is also close and personal as he has mentored countless providers over the years. His work challenges us to do more, care more, and make a difference in our communities.
